

The Muslim Threat

(Los Angeles) Anyone with an IQ higher than their age knows that in this current war on terrorism it is the Muslims who are the enemy. For various geo-political reasons, the Bush administration has stated that Muslims are not the enemy. Balderdash. I will not bother to site the litany of terrorist acts against Americans and the United States government around the world that have been committed by Muslims because the subject has been so well covered elsewhere. I will only say that virtually all significant terrorist acts against Americans or the US government in the last 5 years have been perpetrated by Muslims.

However, what most Americans do not know is that Muslim terrorism is a worldwide problem, not just a US problem. Muslims are actively engaged in terrorist actions against the governments of almost every non-Muslim government in the world. In other words, while militant Muslims attempt to justify their terrorist acts against Americans by say things like, "Your government is evil and is oppressing our people and therefore Allah requires us to take this action", in reality Muslims use this same justification in every part of the world. One must wonder why it appears from their own worldwide statements that Muslims are "oppressed" everywhere on the planet.

The other day I was in a store and observed a 10-year-old girl toying with a store display. In the course of her toying with the display, a part crashed to the floor. Her father asked, "What are you doing?" She replied, "I was seeing how it works". The responded with, "I think it would be a good idea for you not to do that". To my surprise the young girl let out a whinny yell, YOU'RE SO MEEEEEEEAAN TO ME!" Muslims remind me a lot of this little girl.

The little girl wanted to be able to continue playing with the store display even if the consequence was breaking it. Muslims want to convert the population of the entire planet to Islam and have no reservation about using violence to achieve that goal (after all, it's for the glory of Allah). When non-Muslim people, who do not wish to be converted, put the clamp on Muslim aggression, the affected Muslims then consider themselves "oppressed".

Once they consider themselves "oppressed", they then rationalize abandonment of their former "mild level" of aggression and violence and feel justified (of course in the name of Allah) in embarking on a full bloodbath-style jihad. Despite the rhetoric that appears in the dominant media, Muslims are zealots and their end game is to convert you to Islam, or kill you trying.

Some people will say that is not true of all Muslims. Of course not, but so what? When we bombed Dresden in WWII did we worry about the handful of Germans in that city who might not have believed that Hitler's war was right or just? Nope. When we dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima, did we worry about the few Japanese in that city who might have thought Japan's war against America was wrong? Nope.

Islam has grown to be more than a religion. Today it is a distinct culture that exists in every part of the world and it is spawning violence everywhere it goes. To the minority of more peacefully minded Muslims, I suggest you split from mainstream Islam and form a separate recognizable sect, known for its peaceful nature. I would also suggest that a peaceful Muslim not live in the midst of the mainstream Muslims. Like smoking, that may be hazardous to your health. If your fellow fundamentalist Muslim don't kill you, Tomahawk missiles may.

Today's mainstream Muslim culture is like the man who says to a woman, "You can consent to my having intercourse with you or I will brutally rape you, but either way I will end up inside you". You cannot negotiate with Islam; you cannot plead with Islam; you cannot apply logic to Islam (a typical western flaw); you cannot change mind of Islam. Islam does not care how it dominates you, only that it dominates you.

It is essential that we do not deceive ourselves as to the true nature of who our enemy is, what the true goals of our enemy are, and the true nature of the culture that constitutes that enemy.
